Hartford's Grand List Rises 4% After Reevaluation

By STEVEN GOODE | February 8, 2010

The city's grand list of taxable property grew by 4 percent in 2009 to a total of $3.6 billion, city officials said. The $138.3 million overall increase was attributable to growth in the value of real property, which increased by 5.95 percent. "The main chunk was based on the phase-in from reevaluation," said Assessor Larry LaBarbera. However, the other two categories of taxable property — personal property and motor vehicles — decreased by 0.62 percent and 3.52 percent, respectively.
